SOCIAL MATTERS. Gen, and Mrs. Hazen's Silver Wedding

-Personal Notes. The third assistant postmaster general, Mr. A. D. Hazen, and Mrs. Hazen entertained a company at their residence, No. 629 G street southwest, last evening, in honor of the twentyfifth anniversary of their marriage. The drawing rooms were tastefully garnished with the prevailing flower, the many-colored chrysauthemums, and feathery ferns and palms. President Harrison sent a large bunch of chrysan-themums, that decked the hall for the evening. Gen, and Mrs. Hazen received their guests in the front drawing room. The hostess was most becomingly attired in a gown of black silk, demi-trained, and she wore diamond ornaments and held a bouquet of bridal roses. They received a number of handsome gifts from friends here and from a distance, mostly in silver, the occasion being the silver anniversary of their wedding. A superb supper was served and the health of the host and hostess were drank in bumpers of wine that flowed freely. It was at a late hour that the company broke up. Among those present were Postmaster General Wanamaker. Capt. od, Mr. E. G. Rathbone, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. P. Hazen, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. McGuire, Miss AMUSEMENTS. GEORGETOWN ORCHESTRA.—The Georgetown Amateur Orchestra last night at the Music Hall showed the great improvement it had made since last season, and proved itself an organization of which Washington may well be Willard's for the winter.

The soloists introduced were Miss Alice C. Spier, pianist, and Miss Mary Howe, soprano. The former in her interpretation and execution of the piano score in the Beethoven concerts proved herselt a fin-ished performer, and although Miss Howe was suffering from a cold she sang the bird song from David's "La Perle du Bresil" in a manner which delighted the large of her voice and its marvelous flexibility present. The liquid purity never exhibited to better advantage. In the songs by Cowen the singer's cold was more apparent. The entire concert or rehearsal, as it was called, was the best which the orchestra has ever given and the marked commendation of the audience should encourage them even to higher aims in the future.

a Gun Factory. Commodore Folger, chief of ordnance of the navy, in his annual report to the Secretary refers as follows to the Washington yard: The buildings for the gun factory proper have been completed since last report. All the machinery has been installed in the south gun shop and is in full operation. The 110-ton It may be a Kolb day in Alabama for Senator overhead traveling crane has been erected on its supports in the north gun shop, tested and found to be satisfactory. A few changes in the hoisting purchase are being made by the contractor, upon the completion of which the crane will be accepted. The large gun lathes for this shop have been con-Government officials and agents at present tracted for by the department with Messrs. Wm. Sellers & Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., under date of July 10, 1890, after advertisement dated December 27, 1889, February 13 and March 7, 1890. This contract requires the completion and erection of two of the lathes by January 10, 1892, and all of the lathes within thirty-three months from the date of the contract, or by April 10, 1893, and the contract date for the delivery of the forgings for twelve and thirteeninch guns is made to correspond with the de-liveries of these large machine tools, that there may be no delay in the completion of the main batteries of the battle ships.

SUPERIOR TO ANY IN USE BBROAD. The bureau considers that the large gun lathes of this contract will be superior in design, capacity, handiness and accuracy of work and in finish to any similar machine tools now in use abroad, and the department is to be congratulated upon this development in our resources. Tools of this class and size are at present only manufactured by two or three firms, and these in England and France. The shrinkage plt and gun carriage shop have been completed since last report and are in full operation: the office building also has been completed and is at present occupied. The railway siding, which has been constructed from the Baltimore and Potomac railroad into and around the navy yard, has greatly facili-tated the delivery of gun forgings and the shipment of ordnance material. The bureau has acquired by purchase a shifting engine.

The bureau has acquired during the year several special machine tools, notably boring mills and boring and turning lathes of the firm of Bement, Miles & Co. of Philadelphia, Pa., the biggest fire at our hotel, and they waked and desires to mention specially their effi-us up just in time!" With the increase in the quality and the amount of the machinery at the naval gun factory and in the adoption of fixed and advantageous methods of shop administration and of settled principles, a large economy has resulted in the production of all material. This is especially apparent in the manufacture of tools, of projectiles, of guns and carriages. A CHEMICAL LABORATORY.

The bureau has secured the services of a capable chemist and has installed a laboratory complete in all respects for analytical work and for experiments in explosives in connection with the new proving ground at Indian

A marked advantage in the direction of conomy has already resulted from this new department in the item of lubricating oils, the shop now manufacturing its own oil. The bureau anticipates advantageous developments in various directions from this addition to the facilities of the gun factory. The shops have been completely provided with an electric lighting plant and it is at present practicable to work at night in case such course should be demanded. A contract has been made with the Morgan Engineering Company of Alliance, Ohio, for a

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: As we are casting about for centennial celebrations allow me to remind the good people of the District of Columbia that on the 15th day of April next, just one hundred years ago the first boundary stone of the District of Columbia was laid under direction of three commissioners, viz.: Gov. Thos. Johnson, Hon. Daniel Carroll of Maryland and Dr. David Stuart of Virginia. These gentlemen had en-tire charge of the survey and laying out of the District. The modest little light house marking the entrance to what was formerly Belle Haven, situate just south of the city of Alex-andria at Jones' Point, has the honor of being the starting point for the survey, which was to mark out the ten miles square, on which was to be built the the capital of the greatest and most enlightened nation of the world. The history of the plans of the city of Washington -the magnificent designs of the young French may be pardoned in suggesting to our friends the fact, that at the time L'Enfant was ready for his work the finances of the federal government were found in a very low condition, so low in fact that President Washington was compelled to call on the states of Maryland and Virginia for advances. Virginia responded promptly, and by act of her assembly, passed 1791, advanced to the general government $120,000, which money was drawn and used by Gen. Washington in laying out our broad avenues and streets.

Now allow me to suggest that, as a fitting memorial of a great work and in honor of the greatest and noblest of men, that Congress appropriate enough money to commence the building of the Mt. Vernon avenue, and a grand contennial celebration be held April 15. 1891. An appropriation of $10,000 has been expended in less to say it has been well and thoroughly done. So let us have the centennial.
